

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Greenhouse Studios Offers Services to Assist Pelican House in Production of Indie Comedy Film

Burbank, California – April 19, 2011 – Greenhouse Studios has opened its doors to Pelican House Productions to help in the completion of their upcoming film.

Pelican House is hard at work, with the help of Greenhouse Studios, in the pre-production phase of General Education, their indie comedy. Greenhouse Studios is thrilled to be involved in the process of this promising festival darling of a film. Greenhouse Studios will offer access to their state of the art facilities and talented staff.

Pelican House, the production company behind this creative project, consists of producers Elliot Feld and Ken Liang, director Tom Morris and writer Jaz Kalkat. Greenhouse is proud to support and assist Pelican House with General Education.

Greenhouse Studios is a combined production and post-production house that caters to the needs of independent and high-end clients. Started by three independent filmmakers, Greenhouse Studios has focused their attention on creating facilities that provide both economical and quality services in digital media creation and distribution, aiding in the production and delivery of compelling feature films, TV programs, documentaries, and other short content.
